Site Inspections

Our health & safety consultancy advisory service aims to highlight to our clients the dangers of, and the legal requirements, that govern their work.

Our approach is friendly, proactive and supportive of our clients needs. While on site we remain mindful that we are representing our clients and therefore we remain thoroughly professional and offer appropriate and balanced advice.

Site inspections are currently a large part of our consultancy role here at Lighthouse. When we perform site inspections on our clients behalf, this shows our clients that they are actively monitoring their employees and this could potentially gain further work.

We carry out visits for our clients both in principal contractor and sub contractor roles, covering London and the South East, often going further afield as required.

Our site visits are generally accompanied by the site manager or supervisor in charge or the sub contractors operatives, looking at both documentation on site and the activity and hazards.

Site visits are documented on our structured tablet inspection form, which can be adapted to any workplace as required.

The site inspection report will include photos and will be provided by email to the designated contact; and in most cases sent at the end of the visit whilst on site.

TESTIMONIALS

"Lighthouse Safety carries out our site H&S inspections. They make 4 visits every month and programme to attend the necessary sites on a suitable rota. They meet on site with our site manager or supervisor to discuss any H&S issues and then carry out a site inspection. The following day a report is sent to us in an easy to follow format indicating all aspects of the site H&S commenting on good and bad practices. If anything is discovered to be a H&S problem the report indicates this and advises what should be done to rectify. If this action is to be carried out by us or our employees then Lighthouse help with any implementation required. We have found the inspections to be a valuable tool for monitoring our site safety and we now issue them to our customers as part of our monthly returns. Our customers are impressed by the pro-active attitude that the reports portray."

David Wilkins, Wiltech Engineering Ltd

"Lighthouse Safety' carry out regular weekly checks on site for the Gravel Hill project (part of 6 projects under the Scape framework) to ensure compliance with both Legislation and Company Policy. Lighthouse Safety are not only detailed within their audits but also extremely helpful with problem solving on site. They offer a rounded approach to each site which in turn allows the projects to reach the most practical and safe solutions to all operations. I have found the Lighthouse Safety team both helpful and pro-active in their approach and would recommend their knowledge and insight across all forms of construction."

Ben Bateman, Willmott Dixon

"Lighthouse Safety provides Watkins M&E Group with health and safety consultancy and site inspection services. We have found that they provide diligent and thorough inspections in accordance with Watkins policies and procedures. Key areas of inspection has included documentation, site conditions, environmental, waste and occupational health. I personally have found they provide practical advice based on sound technical knowledge."

Marc Harris, C. Watkins Plumbing Ltd

"The service provided by Lighthouse Safety has transformed the Lucas Safety management systems and brought about an exceptional standard of safety within the Lucas organisation. Andrew Price and his team are extremely hands-on and proactive, but more importantly for a contractor very, very practical and prepared to work with our teams to ensure the right outcome on site. The professionalism that has been brought to our safety management system with Lighthouse is truly exceptional and in the last year alone we have seen a workforce engagement programme be rolled out with a proper training scheme for our operatives, our entire set of toolbox talks upgraded to the latest safety standards set by CITB and a whole professional approach of safety management including site visits, audits and inspections.

All in all, I couldn't do anything other than highly recommend this organisation for any business looking to raise the bar and set the extremely high standards of safety required in today's construction industry. We work for the largest and biggest blue chip clients in the UK who demand excellence from our organisation and we couldn't achieve this without Lighthouse Safety."
